One Year Forecasts predict the probability that a stock-market will rise over the next year. Investors should seek to invest in markets with forecasts of 60-100%, while avoiding markets with forecasts of 0-40%. Bullish = Favourable. Bearish = Unfavourable.

United States Stockmarket Outlook

Our current One-Year Forecast for the United States stockmarket is Neutral at 50%. A major decline from this point appears unlikely, and while the market may not appreciate strongly in value the most probable outcome is for further steady growth over the coming years.

The US stockmarket has generally trended upwards over the last $2-2\frac{1}{2}$ years . . .

 \dots and while there have been a couple of corrections during 2005 the overall trend is still upwards - although this trend is probably best rated as Neutral.

The stockmarket became very over-valued in the 1990's boom but has now returned to fair value - which is again Neutral for the market's long term future performance. The average Price/Earnings ratio is around 19...

... and the average Dividend Yield about 1.8%.

Monetary indicators - which can have an important impact on the market's short term trend are also rated Neutral overall.

Short terminterest rates - which are widely reported in the media - have risen over the last year . . .

... but off the unusually low levels that followed the recent global recession. Very few people were able to borrow at 1% interest rates and the long term corporate bond interest rate is a better indication of market interest rates . . .

These interest rates hit a low in mid-2003 and have since fluctuated around 5-6%.

Money supply growth was expanded rapidly in response to the 2001 economic downturn. The rate of money supply growth has since slowed, but is still expanding relatively rapidly . . .

 \ldots which is favourable for the stockmarket.

Fund News

JPMorgan Fleming European Fledgeling Investment Trust plc has reduced its bank borrowings (i.e. its gearing) from around 18% of its portfolio to only about 2%. This trust has been appreciating rapidly in value, but the reduction in gearing would indicate a more cautious outlook from the Fund Manager.

Eaglet Investment Trust plc has continued to repurchase its own shares at a discount to net asset value. Over the last month it bought back 75,000 shares at 329 pence and 250,000 shares at 331 pence.

Fund Report

Aberdeen Asian Smaller Companies Investment Trust plc recorded a 21.6% gain in net assets to 31 January 2005 - with the share price rising 32.4% to a small premium above net asset value. The Fund Manager used this as an opportunity to raise additional funds, issuing 1,300,000 shares at prices above net asset value to raise £2.75 million in new equity. The company has also recently sought shareholder approval to issue up to 2,805,412 shares (i.e. 10% of the issued capital) at prices at or above the diluted net asset value. This increases the size of the company without disadvantaging existing shareholders.

The Manager remains optimistic and "expects Asian economies to remain healthy" although growth will slow owing to higher interest rates and higher oil prices. Growth in domestic demand from consumers will be the most important factor driving economic growth. Asia's smaller companies still offer "good value", with the company's portfolio trading at just 13.3 times 2005 forecast earnings and producing a dividend yield of 3.4%. "Balance sheets are also strong" with the portfolio companies "in aggregate having no net debt".

Scottish Oriental Smaller Companies Trust plc lifted net assets 19.8% for its half year to 28 February, with the share price up 23.3% and the warrants up 34.5%.

The Fund Manager believes the economic outlook for Asia is "moderately positive", especially "relative to the rest of the world". The region will continue to benefit as developed countries "outsource manufacturing to Asia" with the resulting "strong foreign direct investment flows". Inflation, labour shortages in south China, a collapse of the US dollar, a significant slowdown in China's growth and an increase in the oil price are potential negatives for the region.

"Asian smaller companies trade at discounts" to larger companies and the Manager believes the fund's investment methods of focusing upon "well-managed, financially sound companies" is "well suited" to the current stockmarket volatility.

Economic indicators are a little Bearish. Gross Domestic Product has recovered strongly from the downturn in 2001 and is now running ahead of its sustainable growth rate . . .

Industrial Production growth shows a similar trend - with a sharp economic downturn in 2001, recovering in 2002-2003 and with too rapid growth in 2004...

... so the US economy may ease back to a slower growth rate during 2005.

Low unemployment was an important indicator of constraints on growth during the 1990's boom, but unemployment grew rapidly during 2001 and slightly in 2002 and 2003. The drop in unemployment over the last 12-18 months indicates an improvement in economic activity but there are no signs of a labour shortage that would restrict further growth...

Retail Sales growth remains a concern as the US consumer continues to over-spend (and therefore to under-save - which will put further long term pressure on the US dollar). Retail sales slowed in 2001 but have continued to grow rapidly . . .

... so consumer spending is perhaps "too buoyant" and a slowdown could have a negative impact upon the stockmarket at some stage in the future.

Summary and Recommendation

We live in a world of "high" oil prices and a weak US dollar, but that will not cause share prices to decline. Overall the US stockmarket offers fair value and is slowly trending upwards. Interest rates are rising as would be expected with the upturn in economic activity over the last couple of years. Economic activity has recovered perhaps a little too quickly - and growth may slow in the near term - but there are no major concerns at this stage.

Other world economies and stockmarkets tell a similar story - although are generally more favourable and offer better investment value.

While there are a few clouds on the horizon, world stockmarkets are likely to trend slowly upwards over the next several years. Therefore, investors should remain fully invested in a diversified portfolio of international equities - although we would under-weight that portfolio in US shares and over-weight in Asian equities.
