Summary and Recommended Investment Strategy.

The stockmarket continues to offer the best opportunities to building investment wealth over the long term. Remain fully invested in the recommended shares.

Investment Outlook.

The internet and media is full of information predicting stockmarket crashes. Or that the stockmarket is “stacked against the little guy”. Most people would rather own “safe” residential property investments than “risky” shares. In contrast, forty years ago, while at university, your Editor determined that the stockmarket offered the best potential to building investment wealth over the long term. Are we living on the same planet? Or in different intersecting, parallel universes?

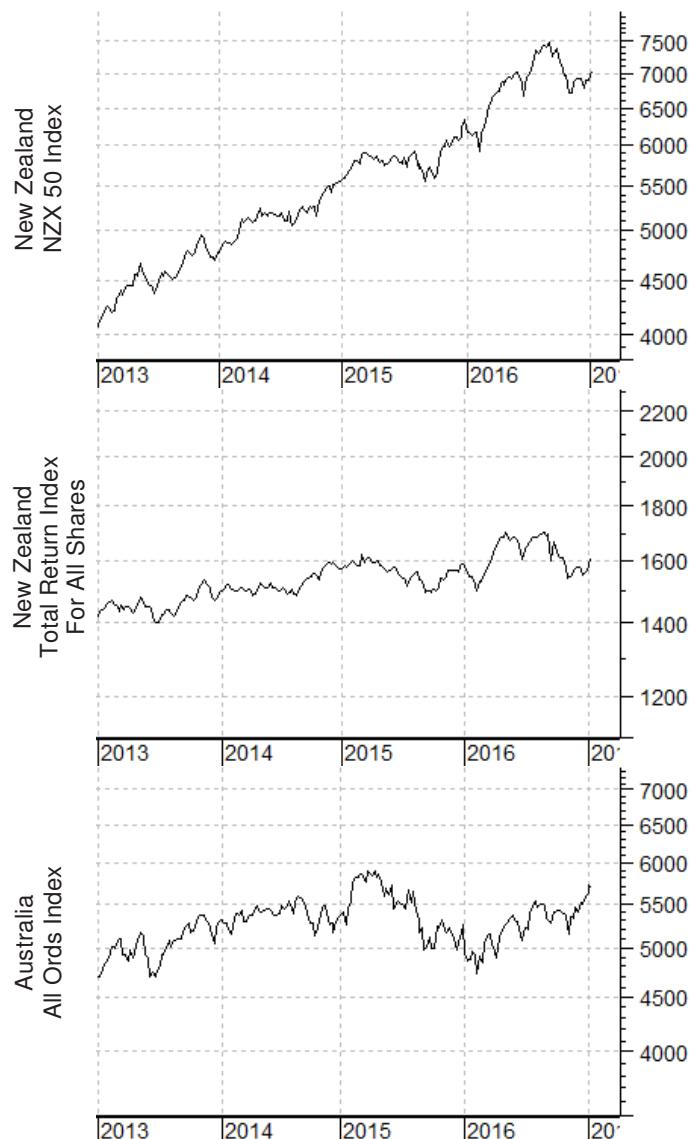

This newsletter's annual returns (see Page 2 and annual historical details on our website) show that an investment in our Recommended Portfolio shares, re-balanced each January, would have turned $10,000 into over one million dollars since we began publishing in March 1981. That is a compound return of just under 14% per annum.

In fact, we strongly recommend against blindly re-balancing the portfolio annually. That would, for example, have required selling 12% of our M2/Vocus shares in January 2007, 33% of the remaining shares in January 2008 and 23% in January 2009 (and so on). Blindly rebalancing would have required selling 55% of our initial investment in those first three years for an average gain of only 91%. But while a stockmarket adage states “You never go broke taking a profit”, you will never get rich taking small profits! Of course, we didn't hold all of those shares to realise a 47-fold gain in August this year, but we probably realised a 100% gain from dividends before realising a many-fold capital gain on a little partial profit-taking!

2016 Annual Returns

Our Recommended Portfolio achieved close to a market average return over 2016 (i.e. from January 8, 2016 to January 13, 2017).

Overall the portfolio grew +14.9% in value. The ASX300 index rose +14.6%, the NZSE 50 Index (including non-cash imputation tax credits) rose +12.2% and the broad Total Return Index was up just +1.8%.

The “Technology” shares that provided big gains in 2015 produced mixed results in 2016: Opthea rose +75.3%, Ellex Medical +73.3%, Integrated Research +27.1% and Technology One +23.0% - compounding on strong gains the previous year. But AtCor Medical (down -63.8%) and Prophecy (down -58.7%) retraced previous gains. Acrux was down -56.3%.

Mt Gibson Iron (up +117.1%) and ALS Ltd (up +71.4%) recovered strongly from previous weakness.

As we have previously pointed out, these annual returns assume an equal dollar amount invested in each company at the beginning of every year, but it is not our recommended strategy to annually re-balance the portfolio! We seek to find big winners. Shares that will increase “many-fold in value over many years”. Annual rebalancing would require partially selling these winners each year and re-invest in losers - eliminating most of the long term gains on any 5-bagger, 10-bagger or 20-bagger investments!

Nevertheless, even with this inappropriate annual rebalancing, an investor who started with just $10,000 in March 1981 would now have a portfolio worth around $1,049,847. That is a 100-fold increase - or an annual compound return of 13.9% over almost 36 years!

Without annual rebalancing the gain would likely be 500 to 750-fold ($5-7½ million), or 19-20% per annum compounded.

The interim dividend will be steady at 1.0 cent, but includes full imputation tax credits for the first time, even though the company has $6.9 million in tax losses.

The company's “activist investors”, Mercantile Investment Company and Sandon Capital, have purchased a further 1,255,336 shares (at an average price of 70.8 cents) to lift their holding to 10,445,189 shares or 19.83% of the company.

ALS Ltd has acquired Brazil based TECAM, which operates two food safety laboratories. Brazil is the ninth largest economy and an important food producer. ALS Ltd will expand this business in Brazil and also across Latin America. It already has food safety laboratories in Peru and Colombia.

ALS Limited

AtCor Medical's General Meeting on 21 December ratified the recent share placement, which would allow the directors to issue new shares up to 15% of the issued capital without prior approval from shareholders.

The resolution was passed on a show of hands, but proxy votes were 48.6 million in favour and 21.4 million against. Such resolutions are usually passed with close to 100% of votes in favour, so this was a significant 30% against (although not enough to defeat the resolution and send a stronger message).

Brickworks Ltd has sold 89 hectares of land at Oakdale West for $116.4 million to its 50% owned Property Trust (a joint venture property fund with Goodman Industrial Australia). This provides $116.4 million of cash to Brickworks and a $50 million profit over book value.

The Property Trust will develop the land over the next decade and build up to 470,000m² of industrial properties - providing further profits from construction margins, rental income, property revaluations and ultimately from property sales.

In February 2014 Brickworks provided funding (in the form of an option fee to buy 1.25PJ of gas over ten years at a favourable, fixed price) to Strike Energy to help finance its Southern Cooper Basin Gas Project. Strike Energy will now start selling gas to Austral Bricks on terms as originally agreed.

Ellex Medical Lasers began clinical training of physicians in China in the use of Ellex iTrack last month. iTrack is the only MIGS device approved for sale in China, giving the company a “first mover advantage in the Chinese market”.

Fiducian Group has purchased a financial planning business in Melbourne and another in Gippsland for a total of $720,000. These businesses have $44 million of funds under advice.

Finbar Group has completed the Motive joint venture development, a two tower development with 143 one and two bedroom apartments. Only 66 lots (46%) of the 143 apartments, worth $33.7 million (42%) of the $80.8 million total value had been pre-sold, with settlements from the end of January. The remaining apartments are expected to “respond positively to robust demand for completed stock”.

Finbar Group has also received development approval for its Palmyra residential project, a joint venture with the land owner. This project will consist of 258 apartments (of one to three bedrooms) in nine separate, three level buildings, with an end value of around $108 million. It will be developed in two stages. Marketing of the first stage will begin this year, “with construction to commence once sufficient pre-sales underpin project viability” and completion expected in the June 2019 financial year.

Michael Hill International reports total first half revenues up 5.7% at $328.1 million. Same store revenues were up about 1%, with 4.6% revenue growth from Michael Hill stores and 71.9% growth from Emma & Roe stores resulting from growth in store numbers.

Eight Michael Hill stores opened during the period (five in Canada), with another ten (eight in Canada) planned for the current second half. Canadian revenues rose 17.8% over the last six months - which should have a larger impact on net profits

Eight Emma & Roe stores were opened, with plans for another six.

Mt Gibson Iron has signed a third offtake agreement for 25% of production from Iron Hill from Shougang Concord International. That makes 75% of production to be purchased at “market reflective pricing”.

This latest agreement requires shareholder approval as Shougang Concord is 47.8% owned by Chinese state owned enterprise Shougang Corporation, which is the second largest shareholder in Mt Gibson Iron, with a 14.9% shareholding.

Iron Ore prices have continued to recover strongly - which should return the company to profitability - yet Mt Gibson Iron shares trade at slightly less than their 39.9 cents per share of cash in the bank.

OZ Minerals has entered a Heads of Agreement with privately owned Red Tiger Resources to finance exploration of the Intercept Hill project, an Iron Oxide Copper Gold (IOCG) mineralisation similar to Carrapateena and Prominent Hill. Under this agreement, OZ Minerals will fund $1.2 million this year to drill four holes to test four separate targets. It then has the option to spend a further $2.8 million to earn a 51% interest in the tenements and then to spend $5.0 million on further exploration to increase that interest to 75%.

TFS Corporation has signed a ten-year contract for the West Australian Forest Products Commission to continue supplying the company with Australian sandalwood.

The company has published a report on its pharmaceutical subsidiary, Santalis Pharmaceuticals, suggesting that this business alone should be worth US$300-500 million “with significant upside upon progress of its clinical trials through Phase III and registration stages”.

There is a lot of uncertainty in valuing a pharmaceutical company in its development stage and TFS Corporation could pay out up to a further US$250 million in earnouts over the next 6½ years. The whole of TFS Corporation (including its profitable, dividend paying, plantation business) is valued at A$648 million.

Morningstar Recommendations on ASB Securities Website

We regularly receive emails from subscribers asking about conflicting recommendations from other advisers, especially the Morningstar recommendations available on the ASB Securities (and other brokers) website.

In November 2016, a subscriber wrote asking about the research report on OZ Minerals published on the ASB Securities website. The share price had “rallied to $7” and the shares were rated a “Sell” with a “valuation = $4.70”.

In December, OZ Minerals was upgraded to “Reduce”. But exactly how does an investor “Reduce” a shareholding that one was previously advised to “Sell”? If the investor followed the sell advice he will have no shares left to “Reduce”. If he did not follow the (strong) “Sell” recommendation, why would he follow the “Reduce” (i.e. a weak Sell) recommendation? The illogic of upgrading from “Sell” to “Reduce” probably reveals that most analysts have little or no share investments and little or no experience of managing a real share portfolio!

A week ago, OZ Minerals was again downgraded to a “Sell” with a valuation of $4.70.

Meanwhile the share price has rallied to $8.90. This newsletter continues to rate them a “Buy”.

Over the last year, numerous subscribers have also asked about ALS Limited, which the broker upgraded to “Hold” (again, how do you “hold” a share that you previously sold?) in February 2016, downgraded to “Reduce” the same month, downgraded to “Sell” in April, upgraded to “Reduce” in May and downgraded again to “Sell” in June - with valuations of $3.00 or $3.50.

ALS Ltd shares have risen from a low of 317 cents in January 2016 to 602 cents. We rate them a “Hold+”.

Just last week we had another subscriber asking about Reckon Ltd. Over the last year the broker had downgraded them from “Accumulate” to “Hold” in June 2016, upgraded them two weeks later to “Accumulate”, repeated that “Accumulation” recommendation in August only to downgrade it two weeks later to “Hold”, upgrade it in November to “Accumulate” and last week reduced their valuation 25% to $1.30 and downgraded the shares to “Reduce”.

We rate Reckon Ltd as a “Buy”.

Clearly we do not agree with the broker recommendations. Nor do we (or the market!) agree with their very low valuations for OZ Minerals or ALS Ltd.

But ignoring that we disagree - and most analysts will disagree - do these broker recommendations make any sense? Could these recommendations be integrated into a portfolio management system? What about the completely illogical upgrades from “Sell” to “Reduce” to “Hold”? Or do these constantly changing valuations and recommendations simply seek to encourage investors to churn their portfolios to generate brokerage commissions?

Stockmarkets are reasonably efficient, so any widely distributed information will be quickly reflected in share prices. These reports are available free-of-charge to any investor through dozens of broker and other websites. By the time you read the report, the share price should already have moved to reflect any information or insight that they contain. Investors can not benefit from acting on information that is already widely known.

“The market” already knows that Morningstar values OZ Minerals at $4.70 . . . and that information is fully reflected (i.e. in this case, largely ignored in favour of other opinions) in the $8.90 market value of the shares.

If you are confused about how you could use this broker “research” to manage your own share investments then perhaps you will understand why 36 years ago your Editor established Securities Research Company as an independent stockmarket research organisation and began publishing Market Analysis to share his work with other investors.

Analysts opinions and recommendations will often conflict. When analysts agree on anything they are usually wrong. For example, if many analysts all rate the same share as a “Buy”, then it is probably already fully priced . . . and will prove a poor investment in the future.

Any analyst's best “Buy” recommendation is likely to be a share that is depressed and undervalued because other analysts rate it as “Sell”. If other analysts disagree with our opinion and recommendation then we could be on to a big winner! When other analysts agree with us, then we start to worry.

Summary and Recommendation

There are two important points to apply to practical portfolio management:

Firstly, if you want to follow two (or more) different advisers then do not expect their advice to ever agree. If you want to do this, divide your portfolio in two (or more) sub-portfolios. Each sub-portfolio should follow the buy, hold, sell, (accumulate, reduce) advice of only one adviser. Do not seek consensus advice . . . it will be wrong. Do not buy on the advice of one analyst and sell on the advice of another . . . you will just churn your portfolio.

Secondly, if you want to follow an adviser (or have your own opinions and make your own decisions) then ignore what other advisers (or your friends) are saying or doing. Stick with the one source of advice or decision making. Don't change horses in midstream!

For an explanation of this table see the Share Selection Methods report available from our website. These shares are not formal "buy" and "sell" recommendations, but the "Under-Valued", "Best Performing" and "Income" shares should be considered for purchase, while the "Over-Valued" and "Worst Performing" shares can generally be sold to release money for re-investment in more attractive shares.

Computer Selections of Australian Shares based upon our Comprehensive Share Selection Criteria

For an explanation of this table see the Share Selection Methods report available from our website. These shares are not formal "buy" and "sell" recommendations, but the "Under-Valued", "Best Performing" and "Income" shares should be considered for purchase, while the "Over-Valued" and "Worst Performing" shares can generally be sold to release money for re-investment in more attractive shares.

Performance Forecasts

"Performance Forecasts" are computer generated predictions of the relative future price performance of a company's shares over the next three to six months. Performance Forecasts are calculated for every listed NZ share (except Investment Trusts) on a rating scale using the letters "A" (Highest potential for capital appreciation over the next 3-6 months), "B" (Above Average), "C" (Average), "D" (Below Average) and "E" (Lowest). These predictions are NOT buy or sell recommendations, but can be useful to help time planned purchases or sales, or to identify shares worthy of further study and analysis.

With some intelligent rebalancing (i.e. selling shares which look fully valued and/or to maintain good portfolio diversification), returns have averaged 19-20% per annum - a small increase in the annual return which compounds to a larger $5-7½ million value of that initial $10,000 portfolio.

No tenant problems, no tenant disputes, no bad debts. No interest and mortgage repayments, no real estate agent fees, no management time and no management fees. No local government rates, no maintenance, no repairs. We can go away on holiday for months. Manage our shares from anywhere in the world and the dividends just keep piling up automatically in our bank account.

On my planet, in my universe, the stockmarket is by far the best place to invest! Sell your investment properties and gold, take your money out of the bank, buy shares.
